THE TEXTURE EDIT

Welcome to The Texture Edit, a platform powered by Hair.com, where we embrace every curve of textured hair. Here, we're not just talking about hair—we're celebrating the culture, history, and community it represents. For many of us, the connection to our textured hair goes much deeper than hairstyles and trends. Our crowns of curls, locks, waves, and coils all wrap a rich and often complicated history that binds us together.

The Texture Edit is a love letter to coils, curls, waves, locs, and twists. For far too long, textured hair has been misunderstood, misrepresented, and even stigmatized in spaces that should be the most welcoming. It's time to reshape our future. To uplift and celebrate what we've always known to be true. Creating a space where professional and cultural hair care meld, where texture is demystified and embraced—because to know your texture is to truly love your hair.

The Texture Edit is a place to feel represented, seen, educated, and, more than anything, beautiful.

Summer is here, and there's never a better time to embrace your waves, coils, and curls than during the warmer months. There's an undeniable joy in the versatility of textured hair during the summer months, from larger-than-life wash-and-go to braided styles—there's nothing summer can't handle (except maybe a sweat session). Check out our Texture Edit Summer Hair Trends Guide for inspiration from haircuts to hairstyles. New to the textured hair game? Learn about the evolution of the natural hair community through one woman's journey to embrace her hair.

Give your mane the TLC it deserves this summer with hair care tips and tricks tailored to your specific hair type. Learn how to protect your textured hair from the sun, how to keep it hydrated, and how to style it. And, of course, it wouldn't be summer without a complete guide to protective styles like braids and twists, which offer both style and relief from the heat. Join The Movement. Sign The Petition. We want the values of The Texture Edit to live on well beyond this page. So, we've partnered with the Professional Beauty Association and other industry leaders to create the Natural Hair Education Collective. Over the past few years, the natural hair movement has grown, and our mission is to equip all hair stylists with the tools and knowledge to service all clients with confidence and skill.

We've already made such remarkable progress in the last year alone! In November 2023, New York passed historic legislation sponsored by the TRC mandating textured hair education in cosmetology schools. Additionally, the Texture Chart was developed by the TRC to help stylists understand textured hair, guide their training and testing for all hair types and textures. These legislative wins signify a growing recognition of the importance of inclusive education and practices within the industry nationwide. Over the coming months, we'll continue to work to ensure these states will be updated to include TEC-approved education about all hair textures, and lasting standards will be updated to reflect the new curriculum. These victories have made us hopeful and motivated, and we're hopeful to see more states join us in mandating textured hair education.

We have so much more than we want to accomplish—but we need your help. Join us in ensuring the near erasure of textured hair from beauty school curriculums will be a distant piece of history, and sign the petition to include textured hair in cosmetology testing standards. Whether you're a pro looking for more equitable access to education or want to ensure your hair is treated with the special care it deserves, we're here for it.
